SPECIALIZATION

Over the past years, my focus has slowly but steadily shifted towards development, back-end and front-end.

However, my biggest interests are languages and cultures. With that knowledge, I want to solve problems for people from all over the world, make their lives easier and connect them with each other.

In 2020, I made the decision to make another step, a big one this time, by moving to London to work at the FitTech focussed company Hussle. This is a big chance for me to combine my passion for fitness with my passion for tech. And all that in the amazing city of London.
